

AP Literature and Comp Summer Reading

Welcome to AP Literature!

Reading is one of the best things you can do to prepare yourself for the challenges of the upcoming school year and beyond. Now more than ever, it is important to sharpen your critical reading skills, expand your vocabulary and enhance your focus and imagination - all in the comfort of your own home. There's no better way to accomplish this than by sitting down with a good book.

We are asking that you, as an AP Literature student, read at least two novels of your choice this summer. There is a presentation aspect for your novel. During the first week you will be presenting one of the two books of your choice.

You can do a presentation, which will include:

- the title of the book and its year of publication
- the name of the author
- the genre (type or category) of the book (for example, biography, autobiography, or fiction)
- the main subject, plot, or theme of the book
- a brief summary of the key points or ideas treated in the book
- the reader's response to the book, identifying its apparent strengths and weaknesses
- brief quotations from the book to support general observations
 - Also, explaining the quotation and what it means to you.

For those that are creative or artistic:

- A comic strip of each chapter highlighting the important details in each chapter
 - At the end of the comic, make sure you have a small blurb of the impact of the novel that you've read, as well as the overarching theme found within the novel.

You have the choice of doing a book trailer as well. A book trailer is a short promotional video distributed across multiple platforms to help you increase your online presence and reach a wider audience. It also gives readers a unique way to be introduced to your book and marketing message, other than a traditional book summary or review.

This should include:

- Create a 2 to 3-minute book trailer that artistically and thoroughly represents the theme, setting, conflict, tone, and characters of your chosen book. Search on-line for sample book trailers.
- Your trailer must be entirely your own. Be prepared to give a brief introduction to your book before you share your book trailer with the class.

Remember, you can choose any book you wish to read - it does not have to be on the list below.

The following titles are included just to give you some ideas. Some titles may contain adult themes and content, so we encourage you to do some research before selecting a title.

You can check out books through Fall River Public Library, or if you have access to an E-Reader here is a list of wonderful resources: Hoopla, Overdrive EBooks, Axis 360, and RB Digital. All of these services are provided through Fall River Public Library card!

Happy reading!!
